

Dear GirlsMatter girls,

Women have been a minority voice of the population for all of time, and still continue to be today. It's comforting to know, though, that wonderful, strong, powerful, and passionate leaders full of pride and girl power such as yourselves are carrying on the torch of GirlsMatter's goal! GirlsMatter is a group not to ever take for granted. Having made the jump from the fun of life at middle school to the excitement of high school myself, (which lacks a club such as this) I now realize how lucky I was to have been blessed with the Total Image experience, and I dearly miss it. I advise you to cherish every moment spent dancing, primping, debating, planning, and further advancing the status of women in modern day society, and know that you truly are making a difference. For proof, just look at Victoria and her standing as one of the teenagers most likely to change the world. One of you will most likely be next! Even closer still, just look right around you at the changes you have triggered in your school, and all of the fun and joy you are sharing with all of the members of this one-of-a-kind group. This club will change you; so enjoy it while it is still right where you are. Also, listen to Mrs. Noon, you will never find another mentor quite like her! Keep strong and diligent, and once you're writing your own letter back to GirlsMatter as an alumni, you'll have inspirations such as this to look back on fondly and thank!

Sincerely yours,

Micaela
